RainMaker Management Consultants Opens Latin America Baseball Player Division

Opening Caps a Series of Expansions and Successes for the Firm

Los Angeles – RainMaker Management Consultants announced today that it has opened a Latin America Baseball Player Division. The new division opening comes hard on the heels of several key headline stories of poor management and guidance by agents and the managers for Latin American Baseball Players. RainMaker’s higher ethics, and stronger relationship motto allows the firm to make a positive direct impact with this new division through its expertise in athlete, entertainer, and product management.

Jose German, who comes to the firm from Phoenix, Arizona’s broadcast journalism’s Solo Deportes, will anchor the division. He has represented and assisted numerous Latin American Baseball players in various capacities.

“I am very pleased to be with RainMaker Management Consultants, which has a solid reputation for success, expertise and dedicated work,” said Jose. He will work on detailed management services for Latin Baseball players at RainMaker.

“We are excited about the new Division,” said RainMaker Management Consultants Managing Partner Ray M. Witt. Along with our new division, it provides us with an international presence as we work on behalf of clients throughout the United States,” he said.

“It has been a very rewarding year, and we look forward to further success and expansion,” said Witt.
